Caribbean Resilience:
Psychology's Response to Historical and Contemporary Disasters

Caribbean Regional Conference of Psychology
Nov 17-20, 2020
Saint Croix, US Virgin Islands

The Association of Virgin Islands Psychologists (AVIP) under the auspices of the Caribbean Alliance of National Psychological Associations (CANPA) supported by the International Union of Psychological Sciences (IUPsyS), the American Psychological Association (APA) is delighted to invite you to the

FIFTH CARIBBEAN REGIONAL CONFERENCE OF PSYCHOLOGY

CRCP2020 will be held November 17–20, 2020, in St. Croix, US Virgin Islands

The CRCP2020 conference theme is: 'Caribbean Resilience: Psychology's Response to Historical and Contemporary Disasters'. Please join psychology researchers, practitioners, educators, and students in a four day scientific programme to address the following sub-themes:

- Promoting Cultural Competence in Caribbean Response to Disasters
- Multiculturalism / Multilingualism in the Caribbean
- Caribbean Psychology Education and Training
- Caribbean Psychology in Applied Settings
- Historical and Current Perspectives in Caribbean Psychology
- Caribbean Health and Well-Being
- Facing New Challenges in Psychology

The Conference will include workshops, a keynote, plenaries, papers, posters, and roundtable presentations/discussions in a conference setting at the edge of the sea. CRCP2020 will sponsor a "global village" with informational displays, local crafts, and ample space for interaction. Conference fees will include registration, coffee breaks, lunches, and the opening and closing ceremonies.

Call for Abstracts:
CRCP2020 invites abstracts that embrace and affirm the past and present realities of the Caribbean peoples, and promote their prospective physical, mental and social health and overall well-being. Abstracts from psychologists, other social scientists and educators as well as students, and those working in related fields--within the region, the Caribbean Diaspora, and from around the world--are welcome. In addition to the overall theme and sub-themes, CRCP2020 will also welcome abstracts from professionals in other fields who work within a mental health or other relevant framework.

The early submission deadline is September 13, 2019, and regular submission is January 30, 2020, with decisions to be made by April 15, 2020.

Please note that English is the official language of the Conference, but abstracts will also be accepted in Haitian Kreyòl, French, Spanish, and Dutch.

Please visit our website at http://crcp2020.org/ for more information
DO NOT MISS THE OPPORTUNITY TO BE A PART OF THE SCIENTIFIC PROGRAMME. PLEASE SUBMIT YOUR ABSTRACT FOR THE 5TH CARIBBEAN REGIONAL CONFERENCE OF PSYCHOLOGY AND REPRESENT YOURSELF, YOUR NATION AND YOUR REGION AT CRCP 2020, ST CROIX, USVI!